I have an ember app where I have a "first-route" and "second-route" that need to be nested. I want to use Ember-route-route to do it but I am not able to. Ember-route-route: import Ember from 'ember'; export default Ember.Route.extend({ model: function () { return { myArray: ['Cat', 'Dog', 'Mouse'], myInt: 10 } } }); This "first-route" works fine, if I use it as: localhost:4000/first-route localhost:4000/first-route/second-route But I want to use it as: localhost:4000/first-route/second-route How do I do that? A: The easy solution is to put a main route that defines the model, and then have nested routes that extend it: import Ember from 'ember'; export default Ember.Route.extend({ model: function () { return { myArray: ['Cat', 'Dog', 'Mouse'],
